

Warren Island State Park was acquired by the people of the State of Maine as a gift from the Town of Islesboro in 1959. The 70 acre island, located approximately three miles off the coast of Lincolnville, was the first State Park in Maine developed exclusively for the boating enthusiast. The Maine State Ferry provides transportation to the nearby island of Islesboro. We welcome you to enjoy the unique experience of island recreation and camping following these guidelines:

⚓ Access to the island is provided at the pier, located on the eastern shore. A limited number of courtesy moorings in deeper water, adjacent to the pier, are provided for larger boats on a first-come, first served basis. Park staff are not allowed to transport visitors, except in an emergency.

⚓ Upon arrival on the island, visitors are asked to register themselves at the Visitor Information Center, an open air kiosk near the pier. Campers will find a courtesy cart for use in carrying gear to campsites. Please note that sites 1-7 are reservable through the State Park reservation system, and may be marked by signs showing that they have already been claimed for the night. All camping must take place on designated and marked campsites provided by the park.

⚓ Please be careful with fire. Fires are allowed without special permits only in fire pits and grills that have been provided by the park. Visitors may gather firewood on the island, but are reminded that live vegetation must not be disturbed.

⚓ Since the park is an island with no public services, visitors are asked to carry out all trash that they may generate during a visit. This is particularly true of organic and non-burnable trash from camping. We ask that no trash be disposed of in our privy toilet facilities.

⚓ Drinking water is available from a solar pump on the island. Please help protect our water supply by bathing or washing dishes away from this water source.

⚓ During the operating season (Memorial Day to September 15) Warren Island is patrolled regularly by park rangers. There are times, however, when no staff will be available to provide assistance. Visitors are encouraged to familiarize themselves with emergency procedures posted at the Visitor Information Center. Again, there are no standard utilities on Warren Island, including telephone or electricity. Emergency messages for island campers may be delivered by contacting rangers at Camden Hills State Park. 207-236-3109.

⚓ A visit to Warren Island is a unique experience. To help preserve that experience, please leave the park's natural and historic features for others to enjoy. A complete list of park rules and regulations is posted at the Visitor Information Center.

⚓ Please don't hesitate to contact park staff for information or assistance.
